01 / ABOUT

Computer Engineering student at the University of the Philippines Diliman who builds full-stack applications end to end — from database and schema design up to the interface people actually use. Got into development through practical problems rather than class assignments: a spreadsheet workflow that needed to be a real system, a campus with no good way to find food nearby. Also edits video for a UP Diliman student organization, work that turned out to be a useful counterpart to development — both are about taking something raw and shaping it into something clear.

02 / SELECTED PROJECTS

UPD Eats

Full-Stack Developer

A food discovery platform for UP Diliman students — campus food establishments, landmarks, and location-based search, plus profiles, ratings, lists, and a meal diary. Built end to end, using Claude as an AI-assisted development tool for architecture, implementation, and debugging.

Next.js 14 · React · TypeScript · Supabase · PostgreSQL/PostGIS · Leaflet · Tailwind CSS · Vercel

TAC Quotes

Full-Stack Developer

A quotation management system built for Triple A & C Enterprise, replacing a manual spreadsheet workflow with centralized creation, tracking, retrieval, and one-click PDF generation for client quotations.
